Poetical.

Sorrow.

Upon my lips she laid her touch divine,
And merry speech and careless laughter died;
She fixed her melancholy eyes on mine,
And would not be denied.

I saw the west wind loose its cloudlets white,
In flocks careering through the April sky;
I could not sing, though joy was at its height,
For she stood silent by.

I watched the lovely evening fade away—
A mist was lightly drawn across the stars,
She broke my quiet dream—I heard her say,
"Behold your prison bars."

"Earth's gladness shall not satisfy your soul,
This beauty of the earth in which you live;
The crowning grace that sanctified the whole,
That I alone can give."

I heard, and shrank away from her afraid;
But still she held me, and would still abide,
Youth's bounding pulses slackened and obeyed,
With slowly ebbing tide.

"Look thou beyond the evening star," she said,
"Beyond the changing splendors of the day,
Accept the pain, the weariness, the dread,
Accept, and bid me stay.

I turned and clasped her close with sudden strength,
And slowly, sweetly, I became aware,
Within my arm God's angel stood at length,
White-robed, and calm and fair.

And now I look beyond the evening star,
Beyond the changing splendors of the day,
Knowing the pain He sends more precious far,
More beautiful than they.

THE JAR OF SOAP.

My doctor advised horse exercise; as I have the greatest respect for medical opinions which coincide with my own tastes, I entered a livery stable the morning after my arrival at the watering place to which he had likewise recommended me. The sprucest of proprietors came forward to receive my order—a clean-shaved man, with mutton-chop whiskers, a stiff shirt collar, a blue stock studded with white spots and fastened by a horse shoe pin, a glossy cutaway coat, brass buttoned, massive watch-guard, trousers fitting like drawers, clean dogskin gloves—well to do and horsey all over.

"Take your choice, sir," he said, leading the way to the stables. "We have several in. Now, if you like an animal that you can feel with the bit, I recommend this grey. Oh, he's a willing one, he is—does not want the whip, he don't."

"I suppose you mean that he has a mouth of iron, and a jaw like a vice, and will pull my arms out of their sockets. No, thank you."

"Well, there's the chestnut mare—she is a real clever one. Touch her with your right heel, and she will go sideways all along the cliff."

"Much obliged" said I; "but it is a horse I want, not a crab."

"Exactly, sir; but, you see, there are gents who like a horse who will do that—it makes the nursery girls and such like stand and stare, and think what fine riders they are. This bay will suit you best, I see. When shall I send him round."

"At two o'clock, to 12 Ocean Terrace."

"He shall be there. Much obliged to you for your custom, Mr. Penyolin."

"Ha!" cried I, stopping and looking in his face when he mentioned my name. "Why, surely, it is not Joe?"

"Yes, sir, the very same; formerly groom in Graves' livery stables, at Cambridge. I hope I see you well, sir."

"Thank you. I am glad to see you have risen in the world since the old days. Have you been here long?"

"About five years, sir. And very nicely I am doing."

"Some one left you a little capital, I presume."

"No, sir; just the contrary. I owe my rise in life to being robbed of all I possessed."

"Ha?" cried I, smelling a magazine article, "that sounds curious—how was it?"

"Well, sir, it is a long story, and I have some business to attend to just now."

However, I got Mr. Joseph Snaffle to my lodging next evening, and heard the following account:

Six years ago, come Michaelmas tide, Mr. Graves died, and his establishment was sold; whereby I found myself, for the moment, without a place. So, as I had a cousin in Millman's training stables, at Newmarket, with whom I had always been on the best of terms, I thought I would look him up and see if he could get me suited, for they have plenty to do in those large racing stables, and there are constant vacancies. The worst of it was, I could not pull myself down to ride less than ten stone; but still there was no harm in trying whether they would take me in some capacity, or recommend me, perhaps, to some of the gentlemen who had horses there. So I shouldered my bundle, and started off along the Newmarket road, with two sovereigns and fifteen shillings in silver in my breeches pocket, and not another rap in the world.

As I went through Barnwell, a man joined me who said he was going to Newmarket too, and proposed that we should walk together; and, as I was always of a sociable turn, I made no objection. He proved to be an agreeable companion enough; knew the good and bad points of a horse, and seemed to be a sensible sort of a fellow at the very first. And after a bit, when we grew more familiar, he said he was a tout; and told me many stories of the tricks he had been up to to get information. Of course, then, it was only natural that I should offer him half a pint of beer when we came to a public house on the road. He accepted it, and went in. One halfpint drew another, and that a third, as beer will sometimes, when it is good; not that I am fond of drink as a rule—ask the missis—but there are times when a man is not quite himself; and leaving a place where I had been a goodish number of years, to find myself suddenly all uncertain what to do next, together with being my own master and not having any work to attend to, all gave a sort of out-for-a-holiday feeling, and I did not care if I had a spree for once. So when we left that public, I was flustered and that is the truth of it. Now, the worst of taking a drop too much, and what principally makes me dread it, is that one wants to go on and have more still; and when we had walked some four or five miles further, that thirst came on strong.

"Isn't there another house near here?" I asked.

"Come to mine," replied my companion. "I have got a quiet little public of my own a little way off to the right, not much further on; and I should have to leave you when we came to the turning. But why not sleep at my place? It will be dark before you get into Newmarket. I'll warrant, you will be just as comfortable as in any house in the town. I'll give you the best of liquor and a good bed, and you can walk into Newmarket, which is not above four miles over the Heath, the first thing in the morning."

We must have been hours in that wayside inn, for what he said about night coming on was true enough; it was getting dusk already. So I thought the best thing was to do as he said; and, instead of parting at the cross-roads, I turned up with him, and half an hour's walk brought us to his house. It did not seem much of a place, and the situation was very lonely.

"You don't do a thundering business, mate, I expect?" said I.

"No," he replied, "and I don't want to. I have my regular customers, and go in for snugness."

"Oh, I see, horse watchers and that."

"That's it; and I have had a fighting man in training here before now—twig?"

"Aye, you are not over-anxious to attract the notice of police, eh?"

"That's about it," he replied.

The only person in the ground-floor room of the cottage, for it was nothing more, was a slattern, who at once drew us a pot of beer; but, after a bit, steps were heard on the ricketty staircase, and then a couple of men, who were yawning and stretching, made their appearance. It was not a taking one in either case; but I did not think much of that at first, for no man looks his best when he has been sleeping with his clothes on, and rouses out with never a touch of damp towel or comb. However, when another came in at the door, with short cropped hair, broken nose, bull-terrier jaw, but without that good-tempered look which a pugilist often has, I began to suspect that I had got into bad company; for the beer I had drunk did not prevent my noticing and reflecting, through it made my head heavy and my throat husky. If I had been a gentleman, with a gold watch and a pocket full of money, I should probably have taken alarm, made some excuse to go outside, and given them the slip; but as it was not likely that they would harm a poor stableman out of employment, I did not much mind being in their society one evening, whatever they might be, and joined the general talk in a friendly, unsuspecting manner.

The slattern fried some eggs and bacon, and we all had supper together; after which the landlord brought a stone jar of gin out of a cupboard—for I expect he had no special license; and when I had put a glass or so of grog on the top of the beer, I forgot the bad impression my companions had at first made upon me, and voted the landlord—who sang songs as well as he told stories—one of the best fellows alive.

After awhile a discussion arose—I have no notion what about in the first instance; but somehow or another I fancied that my ability to pay for my share of the liquor was called into question; and to prove it I showed my two sovereigns and silver; directly after which I remembered my suspicions, and called myself a fool—not out loud, of course, but inwardly.

"Now," said I to myself, "if they are the men I take them for, they will propose some game presently; for they will not be easy till they have pouched the two bits of gold I was ass enough to show them."

Well, sure enough, after a little talk about something quite different, one of them pulled out a pack of cards, and proposed that we should play. But I was not to be caught that way. Affected pretty considerably as I was by the liquor I had swallowed, I pretended to be still more so, and swore thickly that it was toy early to begin to play cards—we must have another song; and so began singing myself at the top of my voice. After which I fell forward on the table with my face on my arms; and when they roused me up I declared I felt ill, and would go to bed. I stuck to that resolution, say what they might; got a candle end from the slattern, and went up stairs, stumbling a good deal more than I need have done.

My bed-room had not a tempting look to any one who was squeamish, being neither clean nor tidy; and the trunkle bed had not been made since some one had lain down upon it, so that the patchwork counterpane was all tumbled and creased. However, I was not sober enough to be particular. The walls of the rooms seemed spinning round in a most uncomfortable manner, and half a dozen water mills appeared to be at work inside my head; so I undressed and turned in as fast as I could, and presently went off sound.

How long I slept I do not know, nor yet why I woke up as I did—with a splitting headache, indeed, but quite sober. At first I did not know where I was; but gradually the events of the day came back to my memory, and I wondered how I could have made such a fool of myself as to get drinking with a set of vagabonds I knew nothing of except from their own showing, and that did not make them out over respectable. I listened to hear whether they were still keeping it up; but all was quite still, and then I prepared to turn out, for it was so light that all the objects in the room could be easily distinguished. But it proved to be moonlight and not daybreak. So, after taking a pull at the water-jug—for my mouth and throat were like a lime-kiln—I got into bed again, and settled myself for another nap.

Just as I was dropping off, however, I heard the door move: and, opening my eyes, saw the figure of a man come stealthily into the room. The thought immediately occurred to me that he was after those two sovereigns I had so stupidly displayed; and that, if I jumped up and asked what he wanted, I might very likely get the worst of it. So I lay quite still, watching him out of the corner of one eye; and when he stopped to listen, I snored. That reassurred him; and he crept up to the bed, took my trousers, which lay on the foot of it, and felt in the pockets. I heard my poor two bits of gold chink as he took them out, and nearly groaned.

"Never mind," said I to myself, "I'll have the police down upon this house to-morrow, as sure as eggs is eggs; so you may make off quietly now my man."

To my surprise, however, instead of going out at once, now he had got what he wanted, the owner of the house—for I had recognized him—went toward the washstand and put his hand up to a small white jar which stood on a shelf just above it. Then he stole softly out of the room, and closed the door behind him.

I lay quiet for a matter of half an hour or more, and then searched my trousers. The sovereigns were gone, sure enough; but the silver was left. There was not much, indeed; for I had paid my score over night, and had stood treat at the wayside public house besides. Next I went to have a look at the jar on the shelf, and found that it was full of soft soap. Evidently, my host was not so bold a rogue as I had thought for; and if I had shown myself to be awake he would probably have made an excuse, and let me go off with my money, since he was so careful to provide against my suspicions. For I suppose his idea was this: If I took the matter pretty easy, content to believe that I had lost my money somehow, and that he knew nothing about it, well and good. If I made more fuss, he would invite me to have a search, and defy me to find any gold in the house—for he had owned to being very low in the pocket just then; but if I proved outrageous, and threatened the law, he would have conveniently discovered the sovereigns in the jar of soft soap, and declared I must have put them there for security over night, and had been too drunk to remember anything about it in the morning.

That was the way I interpreted the matter. So I determined just to take my money back, walk off, and say nothing about it; not being particularly anxious to have to stand in a witness-box, and own that I had been in such bad compaay—for that would not have helped me to a good situation, would it?

It was now fast getting broad day; so I washed and dressed myself, and before I had done, I heard people stirring in the house. Then I took the jar, and tried to fish my sovereigns out; but they were stuck far down in the nasty stuff; and as steps came towards my door before I had got them, I wrapped the whole thing up in my handkerchief, and stuck it in my pocket. Then I went down stairs; bade the slattern, who was the only person I saw, good morning, and left the house; and precious glad I was to get away from it.

After walking about three miles as hard as I could put foot to ground, I came to the place for turning off the bye road I was in on the Heath; and close by there was a bit of a pond, which, it occurred to me, was handy for cleansing my sovereigns. So I out with the little jar, and, squatting down at the edge of the water, I proceeded carefully to wash it. I got hold of one sovereign quickly enough, cleansed it, and put it in my pocket; but the second had been pushed deeper down, and, while fishing about with my finger, I came upon some other hard substance, which proved, when extracted and washed, to be a diamond ring; and a rare, large, sparkling diamond it was too. After that I need not tell you that I searched the jar thoroughly, rubbing every bit of the stuff in it carefully between my hands; and, besides my other sovereign, I found a pretty, bright colored stone, which I learned afterwards was a valuable sapphire; and that was all.

Then I went on; and before I had got far I met a string of horses out for exercise, and accompanying them on a pony was my cousin, who expressed himself glad to see me, and asked me to go home and have a bit of breakfast with him, which I did; and during the meal I told him what I wanted, and he said that he feared I could not be employed in their stables, just then, but that he would make inquiries, and do his best for me. After that I informed him of what had happened the night before, and showed him the jewels.

"By the lord Harry!" cried he, quite excited, "I should not wonder if this was part of the great Bedford robbery!"

"What is that?" I asked.

"Have you not seen it in the papers?" he replied, "Lord Glitterbright's house was broken into last month, and her ladyship's jewel-box stolen. We will go and show these things to the Inspector, who is a friend of mine, presently: for if I am right, it may be a good job for you, Joe. Look here!"

And he fetched a newspaper, and showed me an advertisement of a hundred pounds reward for any one giving information as should lead to the apprehension of the thieves.

"It has nothing to do with my ring," said I, "I have no such luck."

"Most likely you are right," replied my cousin; "but there's no harm in trying."

So we went to the Inspector, who had a printed detail of all the articles stolen, and the ring seemed to answer to one of them. So I went that very afternoon in company with a detective to Bedford, and saw Lady Glitterbright, who identified both the ring and the loose sapphire, which it seemed had formed part of the necklace. Then, certainly, my heart gave a jump; but it was a good step yet to finding out who actually did the burglary, and touching the reward. My keeper of the pot-house was taken up and his premises searched, but nothing more was found. However, when he was likely to be tried for the burglary himself, he put the police on the track of the men who had really done it, in self-defence; for it turned out that his part had been confined to concealing the real culprits and providing them with disguises; and for that he had received the ring and sapphire, which he had concealed in that soft-soap, as the least likely place to be examined in case of a search. From his information the burglars were tracked and caught, and the most valuable jewels all recovered.

Well, as the police seemed to do everything, the newspapers gave them all the credit, I feared that I should be overlooked altogether. But, no; I got the full hundred pounds, and a present from my lady besides—which, I must say, was handsome. And when I got this large sum of money—as it was to me then—I began to think that, instead of remaining man all my life, I should like to be master; and as I was well qualified to manage a livery stable, having done everything for old Graves during the last few years of his life—I looked about for an opening, and, through a friend of my cousin's, heard of this place. Of course, I could not start in business to do any good with a hundred pounds; but a sporting lawyer in Cambridge, who had known me many years, and believed in my success, lent me what was needful at a friendly five per cent. Well, sir, I was pretty lucky—I may say, very lucky—for I began in a small way; and, at the end of a couple of years, I was so well established that a farmer gave me his daughter, and five hundred pounds down with her; and allowed the money to be put into the business, too. I paid off the last of the loan to the lawyer six months ago, and at the present moment I don't owe any man a penny—of course barring the current account with my corn merchant.

An Astonished Conductor.

"Get aboard old limpy," said a pert conductor to an aged, plainly-dressed lame man, standing on the platform, waiting for the signal to depart; "get abord, old limpy or you'll get left."

At the signal the old gentleman quietly stepped aboard and took a seat by himself. When the conductor in taking up the tickets came to him and demanded his fare, he replied:

"I do not pay fare on this road."

"Then I will put you off at the next station."

The conductor passed on, and a passenger who had seen the transaction, said to him:

"Did you know that old gentleman?"

"No, I did not."

"Well, it is Mr.——the President of this road."

The conductor changed color and bit his lips, but went on and finished taking up tickets. As soon as he had done he returned to "old limpy" and said:

"Sir, I resign my station as conductor."

"Sit down here, young man. I do not wish to harm you; but we run this road for profit and to accommodate the public, and we make it an invariable rule to treat every person with perfect civility, whatever garb he wears, or whatever infirmity he suffers. This rule is imperative upon every one of our employees. I shall not remove you for what you have done, but it must not be repeated."

That conductor never afterwards saw among his passengers another "old limpy."

How A Dunce Became A Statesman.

The following story is told of the late Dr. Salem Towne and Wm. L. Marcy:

In his youth he (Dr. Towne) was a teacher of youth. One day, seventy odd years ago, a boy was brought to him, of whom the account given was that he was an incorrigible dunce, that none of his masters had been able to make anything of him; and he was brought to Mr. Towne as a last experiment, before apprenticing him to a mechanical trade. The next morning Mr. Towne proceeded to examine him, preparatory to entering upon his instruction. At the first mistake he dodged on one side, with every sign of terror. "Why do you do that?" asked the master. "Because I was afraid you were going to strike me." "Why should you think so?" "Because I have always been struck whenever I made a mistake." "You need never fear being struck by me," said Mr. Towne. "That is not my way of treating boys who do as well as they can." The lad very soon improved rapidly under this new treatment, so that Towne advised his father to give him a liberal education. The father could hardly believe the report at first; but was convinced, and complied with the good master's suggestion. The result was that William L. Marcy became an eminent lawyer, one of the supreme judges of New York State, governor, United States senator, and Secaetary of War and of State.

THE GRATEFUL CLIENT.—A New York lawyer, who procured the acquittal of a man who was under arrest for assault and battery, was waited upon the next day by his client and most gratefully thanked for his services. "What can I do for you?" asked the client. "Nothing," replied the lawyer. "Don't you want an office? I control any number of votes." "I have no political aspirations," replied the lawyer. "But ain't there some man you want to have licked," rejoined the client. The poor lawyer has not yet recovered from this powerful exhibition of gratitude.

BLARNEY.—"Ah, Jemmy, Jemmy," said the Bishop of Derry to a drunken blacksmith, "I'm sorry to see you beginning your evil course again: and, Jemmy, I am very anxious to know what you intend to do with that fine lad, your son?" "I intend sir," said Jemmy, "to do for him what you can not do for your son." "Eh, eh! How's that—how's that?" To which Jemmy, with a burst of genuine feeling, said, "I intend to make him a better man than his father!"

"I have, sir; you may well say that." Pointing to Mount Hood, he asked, "Do you see that mountain?"

The Columbian.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

Friday, April 19, 1872.

A Dirty Dodge.

Gov. Geary informed a committee of the late Republican Convention, that he would not sign the Congressional Apportionment bill, if at all, until after the October election. His motive is transparent. He proposes to take advantage of the infamous gerrymander of 1862, and then for fear the next Legislature will pass a fair bill, will sign the act of last winter, which is nearly as unfair. Yet, knowing how uncertain he is in performing his promises and pledges he may be induced to sign the bill. If he does not, we give due notice to our opponents in this District, that they must fight to win it.

A Model Convention.

Ever since its creation the Republican organization has been designated as the "God and morality party," by its leaders, who claimed that it possessed all the virtues in the calendar. Without discussing the morality of our gift enterprise and horse jockey President, or the defalcations and swindles perpetrated by his appointees, we would allude to the recent State Convention which it was presumed would represent the brains and intelligence of the party. From all we can learn, however, it was an undisciplined mob, controlled by office-holders and roughs, and on every occasion the respectable minority were stifled, and their protests treated with derision. The notorious Bill Ovens was made Sergeant at Arms. He held that position in the House of Representatives as a reward for having killed the gallant Col. Riddle. The inside management was controlled by Col. Mann, who has engineered more rascality in Philadelphia than any other man, and he had for aide-de camp the notorious Bunn who got a seat in the Legislature through the oaths of repeaters, who have since been proven perjurers. Wm. Elliott, late speaker of the House, lent a hand, and again successfully used his favorite weapon of squelching debate that was unpalatable.

Of course R. W. Mackey, State Treasurer, and one of the "Ring" was present as a delegate. He must have Hartranft nominated, to cover their joint transactions, and especially the Evans swindle, in which both were concerned.

Another leader present was General Joshua T. Owens, his specialty lying in the fact that he was court martialed and sentenced to be dismissed the army on the charges of being found drunk in the streets of Harper's Ferry, and of using insulting language to the daughter of his Lieut. Col.

Under such management, what chance had Ketchum, or any other honest man? It is proper to add that one third of the delegates at least stood firm, and protested to the last. Not content with packing the Convention, the "Ring" also nominated delegates to the National Convention. The people of each district were not left free to choose for themselves, but had to swallow the nominations of a corrupt majority. One earnest protest at least was uttered by Col. Frick of Montour, as we learn by the Press, viz:

"THE RIGHTS OF THE PEOPLE.

At this point Mr. R. M. Frick, of Montour, said: I desire to enter my protest against the convention appointing delegates to the National Convention at Philadelphia. I do not think this convention is competent to take from the Republicans of the different Congressional districts the power to appoint.

Here he was choked off by the Hon. Wm. Elliott, of Philadelphia, shouting "Question! question!"

The President. The Chair, is now making out the list of committees.

Mr. Elliott. Then I raise the point that the gentleman is out of order.

The President. The gentleman is out of order, if the point is raised. He has a right to file his protest with the clerk.

MR. FRICK'S PROTEST.

Mr. Frick did not file his protest with the clerk of the convention, but he did with the reporter of the Press, and it is as follows:

I, R. M. Frick, of Montour county, protest against the appointment of delegates to the National Republican Convention at Philadelphia by this convention, for the reason that it is not competent for this convention to assume duties not delegated to it by the people."

We do not believe the masses of the Republican party will endorse the action of the Convention. They are already speaking out, and, unless mere party tools, cannot be driven into the support of obnoxious men.

Opinions of the Republican Press in regard to the Harrisburg Convention.

BEFORE THE CONVENTION.

(From the Press.)

A LAST WORD.

We are told that it is too late in the day to advise the delegates to the Republican State Convention, and that we are only struggling against the inevitable. We hope and believe not. At all events, it is our right and duty as a Republican journalist to speak out boldly and plainly.

* * * * * * *

One word to the Philadelphia delegation, which, in all probability, will have the deciding vote. These gentlemen know the situation in this city, the gloom of the present and the uncertainty of the future. They were chosen by machinery which nine-tenths of the party condemns, and upon which even the City Executive Committee pronounces the doom of abolition. They know how difficult it will be to call out the party vote next fall, and the necessity of a State ticket which will unite the thousands of voters here, disgusted with present management and tired of the dictation of a few men. They know of the sentiment here which will not tolerate the slightest suspicion or the smallest charge against a candidate; they have heard the mutterings of a storm which needs but one impolitic act to burst forth, and they will, we trust, heed the warnings.

Now, as Philadelphia goes, so goes the State. In 1867 Philadelphia went against us and Sharswood was elected judge of the Supreme Court. In 1869 Geary had 4,596 majority in the State, and Philadelphia gave him the measure of it, 4,400. Last year Stanton, for Auditor General, had 14,490 majority, and we gave him 11,494 of it. This city is the bulwark of Republicanism. When the Democracy carry it they will sweep the State.

The wisest and best men in the State—our educators and champions in the past—counsel the nomination of a man who will call out the vote of Philadelphia and enlist the enthusiasm of its thousands of Republicans, as devotedly loyal in their attachment to the party as any, but will not be forced into the support of a "set-up" candidate. Their wise, disinterested, and patriotic counsels must prevail in the selection of the men who are to lead our columns and carry forward and enforce the great truths of Republicanism.

Our latest despatches from Harrisburg leave small ground for hope that the politicians will modify their prearranged programme in respect to the nomination for Governor, notwithstanding the clearest indications that the masses of the party do not approve of their choice, and the serious danger that a defeat, which would be a disaster, may result from their obstinacy. But we have done our full duty in the matter—now let the delegates do theirs.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

As the momentousness of the issues that hang upon the coming campaign are better understood, and as the influence which tomorrow's convention will exercise in shaping the result of that campaign is better appreciated, we begin to see the clouds dissolve, and the future of the party becoming bright and assurred again.

The nomination of General Hartranft, which awhile ago looked as though the people demanded, is now most strongly opposed by them. The "plot," or "job," or whatever it may be, of the party managers, has evoked a storm of honest indignation throughout the length and breadth of the Commonwealth. The people sternly reject any attempt to force upon them a candidate nominated by such means as those which elected one-half the delegates sent to Harrisburg from this city.

Now, General Hartranft was as gallant a soldier as Pennsylvania or any other State sent to the front, and we cannot reward too highly the heroes who saved the Union, and his administration of the Auditor General's office has apparently been satisfactory and honest, but there are suspicions against him which would weigh him down like a millstone in the coming canvass. They may be unjust and malicious, but they were not inspired by his opponents for the nomination, nor have they been urged against him by these honorable gentlemen. Furthermore, he has not the ripe experience, ability, or culture for the Executive of a great Commonwealth like Pennsylvania.

Besides all this, consider the great issues at stake in October next. The offices are high and important—Governor, Judge of the Supreme Court, Auditor General, and a Legislature to elect a United States Senator. Seldom is there such a combination of causes to call for good nominations, wise counsels, and unanimity of action. In the November following the Presidential and Congressional elections will be held, and it may so turn that the electoral vote of Pennsylvania thrown into the scale will turn the ballance. The result of the Presidential race will hinge upon the October contest.

Never was there a more critical period, and the party should be active, harmonious, and united. We have not the beaten Democracy so much to fear as the dangerous elements in our ranks, growing bolder and more confident every day by just such movements as that now under consideration. The moral force of our organization must not be weakened, least of all in Pennsylvania, always staunch and true. Let the aspirants for the nominations, if not the members of the convention, rise above their personal ambitions and save our party, now more than ever needed, from the shadow of defeat which looms up in the future.

AFTER THE CONVENTION:

YESTERDAY'S WORK.

General John F. Hartranft is the Republican nominee for Governor of Pennsylvania. We believe it to be a most inauspicious selection, a sad opening of what promises to be a most exciting and difficult campaign. Made not in the spirit of harmony in the party or of the interests of the State, but simply to gratify a "ring" which has taken possession of the Republican organization of the State and will lead us to inevitable defeat in the city next fall unless sternly checked beforehand, it will need a superhuman effort to elect General Hartranft. Not even the placing of Judge Mercur upon the ticket with him will help to lighten our load.

* * * * * * *

The selection of delegates to the National Convention and the State Constitutional Convention is poor, and calls for no praise. A little leaven of wisdom, integrity and ability, is infused, but it does not leaven the whole lump. Some of the names to the first are those of good Republicans and honest men, and one or two are of another class.

In choosing the delegates at large to the Constitutional Convention there was an evident ignorance of the bill passed at the recent session of the Legislature. There were twenty-eight delegates to be elected at large from the State and six from Philadelphia. The convention yesterday gave our city a share of the State's representation. The hypocrisy of the delegates from this city naming the Hon. Wm. M. Meredith is palpable.

* * * * * * *

We can only wish that the convention had been held under fairer auspices, that there had been less of the ring and rowdy element, and more of the disinterested and patriotic spirit which characterized a few members. Judge Mercur's name is a tower of strength, but even it or that of the best man the Republican party of Pennsylvania ever presented cannot efface the shame with which a part of yesterday's proceedings are disgraced.

PATIENCE and forbearance cease to be virtues when any man or set of men attempt to tyrannize over either a people or party. The Republican State Central Committee of Pennsylvania, whose own authority is derived from the Republican voters at second-hand only, and therefore may fail entirely to represent their wishes, empowered the Republican State Convention to appoint delegates to the National Convention, which meets in this city next June. The committee had no possible warrant for this action. It was directly opposed to the precedents of the two last National Republican Conventions, and not only had not the sanction of the people, but has since been earnestly protested against by the voters in several districts. Furthermore, the Harrisburg Convention, to which the rights of the individual voters were thus arbitrarily delegated, was notoriously packed by a ring of unprincipled self-constituted party managers. The election of the delegates composing it, so far at least as Philadelphia is concerned, was a mockery, in which the masses of the party were suffered to have no voice. For these reasons alone, even had the National delegates chosen been ever so worthy and real representative men, the Republicans of the several districts would have been fully justified in meeting in their respective towns or wards and electing such delegates as they desired to have to represent them. But, as the case stands, they will be compelled, out of self-respect, to do this. The State Convention yesterday appointed a set of delegates for the Philadelphia districts, most of whom are utterly without character or influence, except with roughs or bummers of their own stripe. There are but two or three respectable men in the whole delegation. The rest have been taken mainly from the very lowest of our petty ward politicians. We advise that meetings be called at once in all the wards of the city, and wherever else in the State this course has not already been determined upon, and that the Republican voters (who are entirely competent to decide for themselves in this important matter) proceed to elect their own delegates to the convention, which will unquestionably nominate President Grant next June.

[From the Lancaster Express.]

Those who have been careful readers of the Express for the past two years, or since it has called public attention to the reckless and criminal manner in which our state finances have been managed, need scarcely be informed that neither the proceedings nor the results of the republican state convention meet our approval or have any claim upon our support. The convention, so far as its relation to either the wishes or the interests of the people at large are concerned, was a broad farce. We never saw its equal, and we hope we may never look upon its like again. It was more like a ratification meeting, called to endorse what had already been agreed upon in a caucus called by the treasury ring of Mackey, Hartranft & Company.

The nomination of Hartranft, known to be a member of a ring which stinks in the nostrils of all honest men, himself under a cloud of suspicion in connection with the Evans fraud, was bad enough, and of itself a greater load than any party would be able to carry, but it was completely supplemented by the nomination of Senator Allen, whose principle distinction was his championship of that gigantic fraud known as the "Nine Million Steal," and which was thoroughly ventilated in the republican newspapers of Lancaster at the time that bold scheme for robbing the treasury was attempted. To ask the readers of the Express to support a ticket like this, and nominated under such auspices, would be a gross and unpardonable insult. We do not believe it can be elected, and the best reason in the world which can be given for this opinion, to all honest men, is that it does not deserve to be.

Perhaps the only redeeming feature in the proceedings is the nomination of Judge Mercur, who is said to be an unexceptionable man, and well qualified for the responsible position for which he has been designated, though he owes his choice rather to geographical considerations than to any conclusions based upon a comparison of the merits of the different candidates.

The selection of candidates for delegates at large to the constitutional convention, which ought never to have been assumed by a partisan convention was done by a packed committee against the earnest remonstrances of a powerful minority, to whom even the right of discussion was denied by the prompt application of the gag wielded by a pliant tool in the chair.

The republican party cannot carry such loads as these and survive. The time has now come to call a "halt" along the line, if the rank and file would save it from falling headlong into the fearful "slough of despond" to which the leaders are hurrying it. We know that the creatures of the ring will resort to the scare crow of the overshadowing importance of the presidential election, but this is an old and familiar device of the leaders to cover up their indefensible acts which people now well understand. If the men who controlled the Harrisburg convention had been really solicitous of the success of the presidential ticket they would never have placed such an incubus upon the party as the ticket against which we now enter our solemn protest.

[From the Reading Eagle.]

The nomination of such a man as Hartranft—who is well known as a friend of Geo. O. Evans; as a notorious jockey and "sporting man;" a deeply interested party in all schemes for plundering the national and state governments to which he could possibly gain admission; a man who has been time and again denounced by honest republican senators like Messrs. Billingfelt and Warfel; a man who can only command a mere handful of votes in a republican strong—hold like Lancaster county—actually seems like a bid for a defeat, and a defeat he will receive if the people of Pennsylvania are in earnest in their desire for reform.

Notwithstanding all the whitewashing and shirking of the questions, at issue by Hartranft and his aiders and abettors in the Evans frauds, it is too evident that Hartranft, as auditor general, is deeply concerned in those rascally transactions. A Harrisburg correspondent of the Philadelphia Press stated, before the nomination, that some very unpleasant facts were being rakd up in connection with Hartranft's peculiar actions in regard to the state sinking fund. Hartranft was a member of the board, and, in connection with state treasurer Mackey, recommended an additional loan of $5,000,000, in the face of the fact that there was then in the state treasury an unexpended balance of $1,204,363.91, all which belonged to the sinking fund. Another thing that shows badly for Hartranft is the remarkable financial exhibit of the condition of state treasury presented by Messrs. Hartranft, Mackey, and Jordan, in response to Mr. Billingfelt's resolution—an exhibit that shows that overdue loans, bearing interest, amount to $1,654,283.20 (not including the loan due in February last), with an unexpended balance in the state treasury of $,866,794.43, which presents no excuse for this undoubted mismanagement of the people's money.

[From the Lancaster Enterprise.]

The proceedings of the state convention, and the ticket nominated, appear in another column. The action of the body has caused wide spread dissatisfaction, which finds very plain expression in the leading city journals, as well as among the delegates on the floor of the convention itself. The ticket as it stands is admitted to be a weak one. Why was it so formed? Because the action of the convention was controlled by the same ring which usurped the powers of the whole party in the selection of national delegates. Knowing this, honest republicans are absolved from the allegiance claimed to be due to candidates who are the actual choice of the majority. Candidates representing not the people, but a clique of corrupt men, cannot expect to receive that united support which is essential to success.

We await developments, believing that some radical change in the present situation is the only way to prevent an improper nomination from resulting in a disastrous defeat, which the party can least afford upon the very threshold of a presidential election.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate on Wednesday of last week on motion of Mr. Sherman, the House message denying the right of the Senate to amend a tariff bill was referred to the Committee on Privileges. He said it was the first time it was ever disputed that the Senate had such a right. Mr. Frelinghuysen introduced a bill giving the American and East Indian Telegraph Company the right to have and maintain lines of cable between the American and Asiatic coasts.

In the House there was a discussion of the bill abolishing the franking privilege. Mr. Carroll opposed it as anti-republican. Mr. Potter regarded the present bill as a buncombe measure. Mr. Butler also opposed it, and explained his former vote in favor of such a bill by stating that he knew the Senate would kill it. The bill was recommitted—that is, killed.

In the Senate on Thursday of last week a resolution adopted by the West Virginia Constitutional Convention in favor of amnesty was presented, an adverse report from the Committee on Pensions upon the bill to pension the widow of Admiral Farragut was received, the case of Senator Abbott was discussed, and the Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation bill was amended and passed.

The House passed a bill—97 to 71—to prevent cruelty to animals in transit, considered a bill to encourage the planting of trees and the preservation of woods, and discussed the Senate amendments to the Legislative, Executive, and Judicial Appropriation bill. An amendment to reduce the sum of $50,000 for the perfection and enforcement of the President's civil-service regulation to $10,000 was adopted by 92 to 59.

In the Senate on Friday last a bill was reported appropriating $50,000 for the observance of the transit of the planet Venus, and the North Carolina election case was debated without action. In the House the Senate amendments to the Legislative, Executive, and Judiciary Appropriation bill were debated.

The Senate on Monday last postponed consideration of the contested election case of Senator Abbot, of North Carolina, until Monday next, and extending the power of the President to suspend the writ of habeas corpus at his discretion, for the Wednesday after. Memorials were presented praying that no extension be granted the Wilson sewing-machine patent.

In the House the chairman of the committee appointed to investigate the sales of arms to France reported the evidence and conclusions of the committee, exonerating the Secretary of War. The River and Harbor Improvement bill, appropriating about five millions, was passed, as was also a bill for the appointment of a commission to inquire into the depredations on the Mexican frontier.

C. G. BARKLEY,
County Superintendent of Columbia Co.
Bloomsburg, Pa., April 10, 1872.

LOCAL.

THE accounts of H. L. Dieffenbach having been purchased by C. B. Brockway, settlement of the same will be made to him, instead of C. W. Miller, as heretofore.

NEVER take off flannel because it looks like spring.—Flannel never looks like spring.

THE Governor has signed the Bloomsburg Water Works bill and it is therefore a law.

BISHOP HOWE will visit Bloomsburg on the 6th of May next, and Catawissa the same evening.

A NUMBER of rafts have passed down the river lately, but the water is not as high as could be wished. The ice has never disappeared more quietly than this year.

FARMERS who have begun plowing state that the frost is nearly out of the ground except in places of more than usual exposure, near fences, &c., where the ground is yet frozen.

OUR townspeople will be glad to know that Mr. John Stees has returned to Bloomsburg and resumed his old position in the Post Office. He is prompt and obliging and a blessing to the public as a mail despatchist.

WE have been shown a lemon, grown by a gentleman of this town which is of most unusual size. It measured 11x11½ inches, and weighed one pound. The tree bore several others of nearly equal size.

IF that venerable exponent of patience Job, had wrestled with a cold in the head with sore throat accompaniments for a couple of weeks, he would have expressed his opinion forcibly, we know, for Job was a man after all.

THE value of real and personal property in Allegheny county, Pa., is $355,181,070. The combined value of property in Delaware, Florida, Nevada, Oregon, and Nebraska, amounts to $293,314,915, or $61,866,155 less than that of a single county in this State.

As a remedy for painful wounds, it is recommended to take a pan or shovel with burning coals and sprinkle upon them common brown sugar, and hold the wounded part in the smoke. In a few minutes the pain will be allayed and recovery proceeds rapidly.

AN Indiana editor makes a pathetic appeal to his readers, saying: "If there is anything you know, that is worth knowing, that we ought to know, and you know we don't know, please let us know it." And that is the sort of thing we wish to know, you know.

A LAMP exploded in the house of Mrs. Adams, on Main street, last week and very nearly produced a conflagration. The flames were finally extinguished by some neighbors who went to the assistance of Mrs. Adams, and some articles of clothing were all that were destroyed.

LABORERS are hard at work on the North Branch canal, widening and deepening the ditch. This will enable boats of larger tonnage to use the canal, and will better accommodate steamboats, if such are found suitable for the work. The water has already been let into the West Branch canal.

AN attempt was recently made to burn the fine music hall in Lewisburg by saturating the floors and stairways with coal oil. Fortunately the incendiary closed the outer doors of the building and thus destroyed the draught so that the fire went out. The scoundrel who made the attempt has not yet been discovered.

WE have received a communication signed "A Citizen" in relation to "Locust Township Institutes," but as the name of the writer is not given we do not publish it. We have constantly asserted our position on this point and shall adhere to it. Communications must be signed by the writer, not for publication, but as evidence of the good intent of the writer and for the protection of the paper.

THE TOWN ELECTION.—We understand that the election of Dennis, the colored Councilman, at the late town election will be contested at the coming term of court, and no doubt the return will be set aside as false on the grounds that the tickets voted for him were illegal. In this case a very small trick, very stupidly executed, will fail of its purpose, and all the persons duly elected by lawful votes will constitute the Council for the coming year.

AN Alabama hen has laid several black eggs, causing great consternation. They say it is the sign of a coming negro war.

There was a black egg laid in Bloomsburg on Tuesday of last week and we are curious to see what it will hatch out.

A flat-boat was capsized whilst crossing the river at Wapwollopen on Wednesday last, and two men, whose names we have not learned, and three horses were drowned. One of the men was a teamster, the other is reported to be connected in some manner with the Powder Mills at Wapwollopen.

COAL dealers are in much better spirits just now than merchants having Spring dry goods and clothing for sale. We don't know how the doctors feel about it, but should fancy that there was enough human discomfort extant to render them perfectly happy.

An exchange volunteers the following advice for April—Don't be taken in by meteorological false pretenses. Stick to your woolens until the settled fine weather comes in early June, unless you wish to be cut off untimely by a sudden weather stab through your unshielded epidermis into the windpipe or lungs.

ACCIDENT.—A daughter of Philip Fenstemaker of Nescopeck township, aged about 17 years, was burned to a crisp on Monday last, by her clothes taking fire in some way that is not accounted for, she being entirely alone in the house at the time. She lived but three hours suffering intense pain when death came to her relief.

AN editor whose memory is of the highest order, discourseth as follows: Will some one please send us that item about the Wisconsin girl who ploughs and harrows and plants forty-five acres of land with her own hand? We cannot realize that it is springtime till we've read that item. We haven't missed it for ten years.

THE following record of proceedings in the Luzerne county court at Wilkes-Barre, before Judge Elwell will explain itself:

McNeish & Williamson vs. N. Y. & Pa. C. R. R. Co. The rule to show cause why defendants shall not be allowed affidavits discharged, and on motion of plaintiffs' counsel that the President Judge indicate the adjacent county to which the case shall be removed, the President Judge names Columbia county as such.

WE call attention to the advertisement of Jay Cooke & Co., relative to the Northern Pacific R. R. 7-30 Gold Loan, to be found elsewhere. A large number of documents, maps, &c., setting forth the advantages of this investment have been liberally distributed through the town and those desiring to obtain them can do so at the Bloomsburg Banking Co.

IN the present rage for naming every imaginable style of thing animate or inanimate a "Dolly Varden" we are sure that some one will eventually allude to the late snow storm as bearing that title. To be in time, therefore we would state that the "Dolly Varden" storm was of nature's newest and prettiest-patterns though not one of her most comfortable dresses.

THIS most extraordinary winter gave fresh evidence of vitality by a snow storm of fair dimensions, on Monday. The ground was whitened, although the flakes melted rapidly. In the far West snow has fallen in astonishing quantities, blocking up railroads and destroying life by avalanches. If this sort of thing keeps on, strawberries will become a fall fruit and all apples will be winter ones. It has been many years since snow has visited this part of the country at so late a date as the 15th of April.

VERY nearly a fire occurred at Espy, on Monday, at the store of John W. Hoffman. A lot of rags had been sorted and were lying partly on the floor and partly in a large box. In the room was an old stove which was seldom used but on this day a fire had been lighted in it, which in some manner set fire to the rags. Mr. Schug, who was working in the garden behind the building, noticed the smoke and gave the alarm. On entering the room the flames were seen reaching nearly to the ceiling. Prompt and energetic measures were taken and the fire finally extinguished.

WE have received a communication from Centralia asking why the COLUMBIAN has not been sent to the writer since April 1st. In reply we would say that since the establishment of the COLUMBIAN in January, 1867, our Centralia friend has not paid a cent and in accordance with a rule adopted by us we have dropped his name, as we furthermore intend to do in all such cases after the ensuing May court. A newspaper office calls for cash payments for labor and material and we can not afford to furnish papers gratuitously. We trust that those whose names are dropped will appreciate our motives.

IT has been said that crime is epidemic and it would seem that carelessness is also, if we are to believe the reports of the papers from various parts of the State, and that meanness is the sure accompaniment of carelessness. We have read lately of a dozen different cases where men have lost large sums of money and have bestowed on the finders thereof the most insignificant rewards. The sums lost vary from $500 to $3000 and the rewards from ten cents to one dollar. If these stories are true it may be argued that the mean men of the community have all the money and that the poor ones are all honest. But it is singular to say the least that the dropping of well filled pocket books should have become so general.

ON Friday night last Constable Woodward provided two votaries of Bacchus with lodgings in the Lock-up and on Saturday accommodated James Green, a gentleman of the African persuasion, in a like manner. Mr. Green has stated his intention to be the next Chief of Police of the town, (elated probably by the election of one of his race to the dignity of a Councilman) and we are therefore constrained to believe that he voluntarily entered the gloomy portals of the lock-up in order to acquire an experience as to its comfort and convenience, which would be of use to him in his official capacity. History has furnished us with similar examples of self-assumed discomfort, to result afterwards in the public welfare. We presume that the thoughtful and dignified citizens who voted for Mr. Dennis will confer a like favor upon Mr. Green.

LAMON—In Briarcreek township, on Saturday, the 13th inst., James Lamon, aged 84 years.

Mr. Lamon was the father of William Lamon, our County Treasurer, and a man of integrity and intelligence. His life has been mainly spent on his farm. He was universally respected by his neighbors and died at a ripe age with the knowledge of a well spent life of active exertion.

A man in New Jersey, while moving last week, placed a hog in a pen upon a wagon in such a condition that the hog was compelled to ride backward. When he reached his destination the animal was dead, his death being occasioned, it is said, by the manner in which he was being conveyed.

The above statement fills us with unbounded astonishment. We have known of delicate women who could not endure riding backward but have never heard of a pig whose nervous organization was so easily upset. What renders the affair still more difficult to comprehend is that the pig was not only made sick, but died from the ride. The fact is we don't believe it; the pig demised from some other cause. Probably he was not used to driving about and was scared to death by the condition of the Jersey roads.

TAKE your home paper; it gives you more news of immediate interest than New York or other papers; it talks for you when other localities belie you; it stands up for your rights; you always have a champion in your home paper, and those who stand up for you should certainly be well sustained. Your interests are kindred and equal, and you must rise or fall together. Therefore, it is your interest to support your home paper; not grudgingly, but in a liberal spirit; as a pleasure, not as a disagreeable duty, but as an investment that will amply pay the expenditure."

THE forests of many of our States are rapidly diminishing, and this is particularly stated of the pine forests of Pennsylvania. For ten years past the consumption of timber to supply the numerous saw-mills of Williamsport alone has been immense. The amount of logs rafted out of the boom for the present season will cut over 215,000,000 feet of boards. It is safe to assume that 300,000,000, feet are annually manufactured at Williamsport. If we go back ten years we have the enormous aggregate of 3,000,000,000 feet. That this fearful consumption of the raw material can continue for many more years is impossible. But the loss of the supply of lumber is not the only evil result of denuding the country of forests. Tall trees, by detaining mists and fogs until they have time to form rain clouds, exercise an important influence in determining the quantity of rain for the year. A State which destroys its trees will soon suffer in climate.

A WORD TO OUR READERS.—Since re-assuming control of the Columbian we have made no effort to increase its circulation, depending upon its solid merits as a newspaper, and the unbought organ of the entire party of this county. It is personally gratifying to us to be able to state however, that our circulation is steadily and surely increasing, an evidence that our labors and expense in behalf of the organization are not unappreciated. We are thankful for this more from a party than a personal reason, because it evinces a lively interest in the questions at issue, and unmistakably shows that our friends are fully alive to the issues at stake the present year.

As a party we are solid and united, and feel assured of victory this fall. Constant and untiring action will see us successful.

We do not demand that support shall only be given to us. Read our paper, and if in useful information, news, general reading, &c., it is not equal to others of "the same faith and order," drop it and take some better one. Keep protect—frown down divisions—and let the people rule the party, and not a few self constituted leaders did take political action.

NEGROES IN POLITICS.—For several years past the negroes of the South have controlled its politics, but the "tidal wave" is now extending north. Their organ, a newspaper published at Harrisburg, call Our National Progress, instances the fact that Ohio has sent one negro to the Republican National Convention, and insists that the negroes of this State ought to have at least two, if not three, delegates. The editor puts the cause thus:

"Let colored men insist upon their recognition and respect for their political power.

"The issue must be made, and it might as well be made now as hereafter. Some republicans are saying 'wait!'—and some of them will say so for all eternity. Colored men respect yourselves.

In obedience to this demand the Republicans elected a colored councilman in this town last Tuesday a week and at their State Convention on Wednesday of the same week, selected Robert Parvis, a negro, as a delegate to their National Convention. Toe the mark, gentleman; you must come to it.

Resolutions.

At a meeting of the Council of St. Matthew's Lutheran church, Bloomsburg, held April 15, 1872, the following preamble and resolutions were presented and, on motion, unanimously adopted.

WHEREAS, our Pastor, Rev. B. F. Alleman, feels it his duty to resign his pastorate for another field of labor and usefulness, and

Whereas, Having served us faithfully and acceptably for five years, and endeared himself to us by his high moral worth and Christian character, his pious example and earnest endeavors to promote the cause of Christ in our midst, therefor

Resolved, That we accept his resignation with sorrow, sincerely regretting the circumstances which led him to sever his connection with us as Pastor to people.

Resolved, That we cordially commend him as a faithful minister of the Gospel, an able preacher, a zealous and devoted pastor, and tender to himself and family our warmest regards, coupled with our best wishes for his future welfare and prosperity.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to our retiring pastor and that they be published in the town papers.

A. W. FRY,

Loss of life has been again caused at Little Cottonwood, Utah, by avelanches of snow. Snow there is six feet deep on a level.

We are happy to state that the Normal School was never in a more prosperous condition than now. There are 160 students at present and it is more than probable that this number will be increased yet more. The school has a popular and energetic Principal and everything works smoothly. It is a real pleasure to us to be able to make this statement.

Hon. W. M. Piatt, ex-Speaker of the Pennsylvania Senate, was assaulted last week in his office in Tunkhannock, by William B. Harding, who was arrested and held to bail. The difficulty arose out of a controversy about a school in the establishment of which Piatt was interested.

THE BERWICK ROLLING MILL CO.—On Monday evening, April 8th, 1872, the stockholders of the new rolling mill enterprise met at Jackson & Woodin's office and effected an organization. The project will be rapidly pushed to completion and it is expected that the branch railroad will be built and the rolling mill be in operation in about four months. The title of the new company is, the "Berwick Rolling Mill Co.," and the following gentlemen compose its management for the ensuing year: M. W. Jackson, President; George B. Thompson, Vice President, Treasurer and General Manager. Directors, W. H. Woodin, Hudson Owen, C. G. Jackson, C. R Woods, S. C Jayne, L. T. Thompson. H. M. Hockman; Berwick Independent.

Book Notices

"BACK-LOG STUDIES."

In this unique series of papers, now appearing in SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY, Mr. Warner, author of "My Summer in a Garden," is doing his best work. Here we have,—in a pleasant fiction of a talking group in front of an old-fashioned country back-log,—philosophic suggestion, sarcasm that smiles, not sneers, bright bits of description, social out-looks,—and, enlivening all, a fresh," crisp, yet juicy" and delicious humor. BACK-LOG STUDIES have been quickly appreciated by the press. The New York Times says that these sketches, "for light, airy, but genuine delineations of character, have rarely been surpassed by any writer of the present day." The Boston Transcript says that "for delicacy of touch, quaint sentiment, and quiet humor, BACK-LOG STUDIES are the best of things in theirt way." The Nation thinks that BACK-LOG STUDIES No. III. "renews and increases the evidence given in his previous performances that we have in him a humorist of real merit.' Writing of one of these papers, the N. Y. Mail says it is the "best thing he has written, and the best thing in its way any American or English magazine has had for many a day;" and the Boston Commercial Bulletin says: "BACK-LOG STUDIES constitute a decided hit in magazine literature." Another of these delightful papers will appear in the April number of Scribner's Monthly, which will be for sale by all Booksellers and Newsdealers. $4.00 a year, 35 cts. a number. DEATHS.

ROBBINS—On February 29th, 1872, Charles P., son of Cyrus and Lavina Robbins, aged 2 years, 3 months and 4 days.

O! we've lain our darling Charlie
Early in the silent tomb,
Just while earth is dress't the saddest
E'er flowers began to bloom.

Charlie, loved one, God has taken thee.
For alas! no more, we know,
We his little voice in sweet music shall hear;
O! we miss our Charlie so.

Too rude the earth for such a blossom;
Only lent; thou wert not given;
Yet we fondly hope to meet thee;
Charlie! yes, well meet in heaven.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The returns of sales of the different sewing machines, during the year 1871, show the Singer machine to be by far the most popular of all in the market, the number sold being 181,260, out of a total of 610,194 of twenty-five different patterns. It appears, too, that the Chicago Relief Committee, which undertook to furnish sewing machines to persons needing them, supplied 2,427 Singer machines against 517 of all other kinds. This preference for the Singer machine is due to its intrinsic superiority, and seems likely to be maintained against all competition.—N. Y. Sun.

Save your money by examining M. P. Lutz's stock of dress goods and shawls.

I. W. Hartman, they say, sells shawls cheaper than any one in the county. Try him Ladies.

You can get Nottingham lace for window curtains of M. P. Lutz for 20, 25, 30, 35, 40, 45, 50, 55, 60 and 75cts per yard.

IT is a comfort to walk through so large a store as that of Clark & Wolf and see the immense stock they offer for sale. It looks as if there were some life in the community at least.

Saturday next will be the first market day; after you have sold go to I. W. Hartman to buy all your dry goods, groceries, fish, queensware, &c.

Don't fail to examine E. M. Knorr's spring styles of shoes before buying elsewhere.

BROWN & JONES.—Who are they—They are an enterprising young firm lately established in Catawissa and from the astonishing amount of Dry Goods they sell it evident that the people are attracted by their low prices. They are in constant receipt of fresh goods from New York. They sell only for cash, giving the buyer every possible advantage derived from this plan. A visit to their store will convince the reader of these facts. n4-tf.

No other sewing machines have sustained, during the last twenty years, so high a reputation as the Singer. The most complete and perfect in all its parts is their lately improved new family machine. They are simple, durable, easy to learn, not liable to get out of order, and in capacity for doing a great variety of family sewing, excel all others.

The people come from different parts of the county to buy their cheap goods of I. W. Hartman.

EDITORIAL NOTICES are so common that it is almost impossible for an editor to express his honest opinion of the merits of any article without being suspected of interested motives. This fact, however, shall not deter us from saying what we think of a new addition to the Materia Medica to which our attention has been recently called. We refer to Dr. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS, a remedy which is making its way into more families just now than all the other advertised medicines put together. There seems to be no question about the potency of its tonic and alterative properties, while it possesses the great negative recommendation of containing neither alcohol nor mineral poison. That it is a specific for Indigestion, Billiousness, Constipation, and many complaints of nervous origin, we have reason to know; and we are assured on good authority that as a general invigorant, regulating and purifying medicine, it has no equal. It is stated that its ingredients, (obtained from the wilds of California,) are new to the medical world; and its extraordinary effects certainly warrant the conclusion that it is a compound of agents hitherto unknown. If popularity is any criterion, there can be no doubt of the efficiency of the VINEGAR BITTERS, for the sale of the article is immense and continually increasing.

TRANSFORMING THE COMPLEXION.—The transformations produced by HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM are quite as astonishing as any scene on the stage of a theater. That famous beautifier, transmutes a sallow, peeky looking complexion, into one in which the lilly and the rose vie for admiration, and imparts to a dry, harsh skin, the softness of perfect loveliness. Tan and freckles, which country air and sunlight are pretty sure to produce, in spite of parasols and sundowns, are completely obliterated by it; while it has a perfectly magical effect in banishing undue redness, blotches and pimples from the skin. When the lady who has used it to remedy her complexional defects looks in the mirror, she is equally astounded and gratified at the improvements in her appearance. Every blemish has disappeared; her neck, arms and bosom, now rival in whiteness the snowy collar which encircles her throat, her cheek mantles with a peach-like bloom, and she is ready to invoke a blessing on the inventor of the article which has wrought such a delightful transformation.

CASTORIA—a substitute for Castor Oil—a vegetable preparation containing neither Minerals, Morphine nor Alcohol. It is pleasant to take, does not nauseate, and operates when all other remedies failed. Dr. Pitcher has experimented fifteen years in producing a preparation more efficient than Caster Oil, without its horrid taste. The Castoria regulates the system; cures constipation, stomach ache, croup and flatulency, and kills worms. It does not distress or gripe. By its quieting, soothing effect it produces natural sleep, and is particularly adapted to crying and teething children.

We desire Physicians to test this article, and will forward three bottles GRATIS to the address of any one so authenticated. Insist that your druggist order it for you. It costs but 50 cents, and one bottle will save many doctor's bills. n16w

Important Testimony!

The following letters are among the many we are constantly receiving from persons who have been cured by

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup,
Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic,
AND
Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Pennsgrove, Salem County, New Jersey.
FEBRUARY 27, 1872.

Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, N. E. corner Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia.

Respected Sir—I take pleasure in adding my testimony to that of the many others who have been cured by the efficacy of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills.

Consumption has been hereditary with my family, most of its members having died of it at early ages. My mother and three brothers died at the age of 31, one brother at 27, and my sister at 13.

I was, when about 31 years, seized with liver complaint, which rapidly developed into Pulmonary Consumption. I was compelled to relinquish my employment (that of a blacksmith.)

I consulted skillful and eminent physicians, and tried many patent nostrums, but without success, so that my friends were sure that there was no hope of my recovery, for I was reduced from 140 pounds to 104 and was not able to do anything without assistance.

By what I now look upon as a Providential interposition, I was induced to try your remedies, and place myself under your treatment, and so rapid and thorough was my recovery, that it seemed as though some superhuman power was at work, and to-day I am as well as at any time during my life. I weigh 152 pounds, am 30 years old, and for some time have been regularly attending to my business, bidding fair to live to a good old age.

I am thankful to you beyond expression for having placed me in a position wherein I am a benefit instead of a burden to my family.

Your Mandrake Pills are the only medicine I ever use now. I think they are the best in the world.

I can refer you to hundreds of my neighbors who will verify all I have written, and any information any of my fellow citizens may desire will be freely and gladly given, upon receipt of stamp, by Yours, etc.
JOHN C. HEWITT.

Key West, Fla., Feb. 19 1872.

Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, N. E. cor. Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia.

Dear Sir—Please forward, per first steamer, six bottles Sea Weed Tonic and twelve bottles Pulmonic Syrup.

Your medicines are of such value that I cannot be without them in my household, and in fact no family should be without them.

I have given them a fair test, and openly declare them to be even better than you claim.

Very respectfully yours, &c
W. A. WHITEHURST.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4, 1872.

Dr. J. H. SCHENCK,

Respected Sir—I take pleasure in awarding to you this certificate of the wonderful cure your Pulmonic Syrup and Sea Weed Tonic produced. My throat and bronchial tubes were so highly inflamed that it was almost impossible for me to swallow my food.

I am, on a visit to my uncle, Mr. Charles Johnson, No. 912 Federal street, who says your medicines raised him from almost death after all other means had failed, and he having, therefore, full confidence in the virtue of your remedies, strongly recommended me to try them. I did so, and in one week from the time I commenced taking them my throat underwent a very great change for the better, so that I could eat my meals without any difficulty or pain. I can scarcely find words to express my gratitude for the early relief your invaluable medicines produced upon me, and I deem it but an act of gratitude to give you the acknowledgement of my appreciation. Yours respectfully,
RACHEL M. JACOBS.
No. 846 West Thirty-third street, New York.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SEA WEED TONIC,
and MANDRAKE PILLS.

These are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption. Dr. Schenck has been in constant practice over thirty years continually examining lungs, and knows his medicines, if properly taken, will cure Consumption. His Mandrake Pills cleanse the liver and stomach; his Sea Weed Tonic dissolves the food, stimulates the coating of the stomach, and makes it digest. His Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter, and nature throws it off without any exertion.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Sea Weed Tonic, $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 per half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents per box.

How to Plant the Potato.

Plant never less than six inches deep, better seven; in sandy soil never less than seven or seven and a half. The reason is this, and it will show how many points it will cover: It will put the crop beyond the hurtful influence of the heat and drought; it will bury the seed so that the frost cannot reach it, early as it is put into the ground; and if it should reach it, being buried so deeply, it will draw out gradually, which will save it. It is as well here, the seed is, as in the cellar, and may better sprout here than in the cellar. It will thus show above the ground in due time, when the frosts have disappeared and the growing season sets in. The soil being well drained—an indispensable thing—the rest will not hurt. There being a good mellow soil, with humus (vegetable matter) charging it, it will be comparatively dry and warm. This will save the seed; providing always it is sound; otherwise, affected with rot, it will be lost.

The distance of planting apart must depend upon the sort that is planted. A spreading potato—spreading in the hill—must have more room. Thus, we plant the Peach Blows farther apart than the Early Rose. The latter will put the tubers close together, a nest of them, and the hills can be put close together, say twelve to fourteen inches, or drop the seed (a single eye or two) continuously eight inches apart, the rows as near together as will permit with the cultivator, the nearer the better for the close-growing roots. By thus planting, as will be seen, rather close, there will be no overgrown, and, consequently, coarse, and it may be, hollow potatoes. Neither will there be necessarily many small ones, especially with some sorts, of which, the Early Rose is a beautiful example. The size will be medium, large enough—just the thing for cooking; and there will be improved quality—a thing, we need not say, of no secondary importance.

Select such seed for planting, as is wanted to be grown, of the best, the finest qualities all around, and divide into as many eyes as you please—a few eyes only in a hill.—Prairie Farmer.

Information to Horse Owners.

Keep the legs of your horses clean. All dirt is productive of disease.

Scratches and heel cracks are cured by the following method: Wash the feet clean then dry thoroughly, and apply Carbolic salve at least twice a day. Pursue the same course for collar and saddle galls.

The following is said to be a sure test of a horse's age: After the horse is nine year old, a wrinkle comes on the eyelid, at the upper corner of the lower lid, and every year thereafter he has one well defined wrinkle for each years of his age over nine. If, for instance, r horse has three wrinkles, he is twelve. Add the number of wrinkles to nine, and you will always get at his age.

To get horses out of a burning building, harness them as if for their usual work and they will follow you out as if nothing was the matter.

To cure a balky horse, tie his tail to a whiffletree, just so that when his mate pulls a little, a strain will come on his tail. Instead of beating and whipping a balky horse, try this simple remedy.

To make good harness blacking take three ounces of beeswax, four ounces of ivory black, one neatsfoot oil, two ounces castile soap, two ounce lard, one ounce aloes—to be boiled together, and poured in a basin to cool.

Depth to Plant Seeds.—The proper depth to plant seeds is a question of considerable importance, and one which like many other similar questions relating to plant growth, cannot receive a definite answer that would be of general or universal application. In dry sandy soils; situated in dry climates, a deeper covering will be required than would be judicious where both soil and climate indicate the reverse of these conditions. For instance, it has been shown that peas continue longer in bearing condition, on sandy soils, when sown at a depth of six inches, than they do when placed nearer the surface; and it is said that the Indians upon the table lands of Colorado plant corn 10 or 12 inches below the surface with the best results; but if planted with only one or two inches of covering, the crop fails. Seeds also vary in their ability to penetrate depths of soil in germinating. Leguminous seeds, and some of the largest seeding germinæ, can be planted deeper than those of a lighter character. It has been given as a general rule that all seeds germinate most speedily when covered with a depth of soil equal to their own thickness, and where the constant presence of sufficient moisture for germination can be maintained; this rule is, perhaps, as nearly correct as any that can be given.

Roll Your Wheat.

Roll your wheat by all means. It will do it good when even 6 inches high, in very dry weather. I sowed 72 acres last Fall, when the ground was very dry. My wheat came up and stood 2½ or 3 inches high, and stopped growing. I put on a heavy roller, and it grew more in one week after than in three weeks before.

I have for six years sowed one bushel of oats to each acre of wheat in the fall, and have never failed to make good crops of wheat. The oats get large enough before Winter comes to make a good mulch for the wheat, and does not Winter kill. My wheat never looked better than it does this Spring. The farmers in the counties around here say their wheat is all killed or badly damaged. One farmer that sowed his wheat on oat stubble, where his oats badly shelled out in harvesting, says his wheat is good. Farmers think it too expensive to waste the oats, and time to sow it, and call me "fogy."—Prairie Farmer.

Soot as a Manure.—Although almost ever since agriculture has been practiced, and that we believe is ever since the creation of the world, soot has een known to be a valuable manure, and yet in the 19th century there are hundreds of farmers who cannot be persuaded to believe this. It is really as valuable as guano. Take a hogshead of water, and dissolve in it twelve quarts of soot, and you will have a splendid liquid manure for plants. Apply to the roots of course, and then watch the results.

Young Folks.

Story of a Redbreast.—At Fort William the following circumstances occurred: In a pantry, the window of which wes left open during the day, one of these birds constructed its nest early in the summber. The place selected was the corner of a moderately high shelf, among pickle-bottles, which, being four-sided, gave the nest the singular appearence of a perfect square. It was made of green moss, and lined with a little black hair; on the side which was exposed to view, and that only, were dead beech-leaves.

When any article near the nest was sought for by the housekeeper the bird, instead of flying out of the window, as might have been expected, alighted on the floor, and waited there patiently until the cause of the disturbance was over, when it immediately returned to its nest. Five eggs were laid, which, after having been incubated without success for the long period of five weeks, were forsaken.

The room above this pantry was occupied as a bird-stuffing apartment; after the redbreast had deserted the lower story, a bird of this species—doubtless, the same individual—visited it daily, and was as often expelled. My friend, finding its expulsion of no avail, for it continued to return, had recourse to a novel and rather comical expedient.

Having a short time before received a collection of stuffed Asiatic quadrupeds, he selected the most fierce-looking carnivora, and placed them at the open window, which they nearly filled up, hoping that their formidable aspect might deter the bird from future ingress. It was not, however, to be so frightened "from its propriety," but made its entrance as usual. The walls of the room, the tables in it, and nearly the entire floor, were occupied by these stuffed quadrupeds.

The perseverance of the robin was at length rewarded by a free permission to have its own way, when, as in defiance of the ruse that was practiced against it, the chosen for the nest was the head of a shark which hung on the wall (the mouth being gagged may have prevented it being the site); while the tail, etc., of an alligater stuffed served to screen it from observation. During the operation of forming this nest, the redbreast did not in the least regard the presence of my friend; but both man and bird worked away within a few feet of each other.

On the 1st of June I saw it seated on the eggs, which were five in number; they were all productive, and the whole brood in due time escaped in safety.

Value of a Good Reputation.—A young man had volunteered, and was expecting daily to be ordered to the seat of war. One day his mother gave him an unpaid bill with the money, and asked him to pay it.—When he returned home at night she said:

"Did you pay that bill?"

"Yes," he answered.

In a few days the bill was sent in a second time.

"I thought," she said to her son, "that you paid this?"

"I really don't remember, mother; you know I have had so many things on my mind.'

"But you said you did."

"Well," he answered, "if I said I did I did."

He went away, and his mother took the bill herself to the store. The young man had been known in the town all his life, and what opinion was held of him this will show.

"I am quite sure," she said, "that my son paid this bill some days ago; he has been very busy since, and has quite forgotten about it, but he told me that he had, and he says he is quite sure that he did."

"Well," said the man, "I forgot about it; but if he ever said he did, he did."

A story is told of a little four-year-old fellow who, having disobeyed his father, was about to incur the penalty—a switching. The father deliberately prepared a rod, while his son stood a sad and silent spectator. As the parent approached to the unpleasant duty, the boy started at a brisk run toward a neighboring hill. The father pursued, and for a time the youngster increased the distance between them; but gradually his strength began to fail, and when he reached the hill, and began to ascend, he soon lost his vantage ground. Nearer and nearer the irate father approached, and just as the top of the hill was reached, and as he came within arm's length of the little fugitive, who was ready to fall from exhaustion, the boy quickly faced about dropped upon the ground and with an indescribable cast of countenance, exclaimed; "Papa, that—makes a fellow—blow—don't it?" This "changing of the subject" was so extremely ludicrous, that the father laughed heartily over the strategy which his hopeful son exhibited, and the rod was not used.

A little boy, who had been told that he must never ask for anything to eat away from home, went into a neighbor's house, when the lady chanced to be frying doughnuts."

"Oh," said he, "you are cooking."

Aware that he had been well trained, and anxious to see whether his appetite would get the better of his manners, the lady did not give him any of the doughnuts.

"Well," said he, returning to the charge, "your cakes look nice."

"Oh, very nice," said the lady; "they are the best I ever cooked."

After playing with the cat a few minutes, he remarked—"And they smell very nice."

"Oh, yes, they smell very nice," was the lady's tantalizing answer.

"Well, I suppose that if any little child that was hungry should come in here when you are cooking, you would give him something to eat?"

"Well, yes, I think I should."

"Then," said he, after another turn with the cat, "I guess I must go home, for I am very hungry."

He got a doughnut.

Humility.—Farmer went with his son into a wheat field, to see if it was ready for the harvest. 'See, father,' exclaimed the boy, 'how straight these stems hold up their heads. They must be the best ones. Those that hang their heads down, I am sure, cannot be good for much.'

The farmer plucked a stem of each kind, and said, 'see here, foolish child! This stalk that stood so straight is light headed, and almost good for nothing, while this that hung its head so modestly is full of the most beautiful grain.'

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

A Bitters without Alcohol or Spirits of any kind,

Is different from all others. It is composed of the pure Juices, or Vital Principle of Roots, Herbs, and Barks, (or as medicinally termed Extracts,) the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore in one Bottle of this Bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons of ordinary mixtures. The Roots, &c., used in this Bitters are grown in Germany, their vital principles extracted in that country by a scientific Chemist, and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, where they are compounded and bottled. Containing no spirituous ingredients, this Bitters is free from the objections urged against all others: no desire for stimulants can be induced from their use, they cannot make drunkards, and cannot under any circumstances, have any but a beneficial effect.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,

Was compounded for those not inclined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases when some alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the Tonic properties of the Bitters. Each bottle of the Tonic contains one bottle of the Bitters, combined with pure SANTA CRUZ RUM, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the bitters is overcome, forming a preparation highly agreeable and pleasant to the palate, and containing the medicinal virtues of the Bitters. The price of the Tonic is $1.50 per Bottle which many persons think too high. They must take into consideration that the stimulant used is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article? A medicinal preparation should contain none but the best ingredients; and they who expect to obtain a cheap compound, and be benefitted by it will most certainly be cheated.

Hon. James M. Wood, Ex-Mayor of Williamsport Pa.

I take great pleasure in recommending "Hoofland's German Tonic" to any one who may be afflicted with Dyspepsia. I had the Dyspepsia so badly it was impossible to keep my food in my stomach, and I became so weak as not to be able to walk half a mile. Two bottles of Tonic effected a perfect cure. James M. Wood.

REMEMBER

THAT

AND

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC

Will Cure every case of

MARASMUS,

Or Wasting away of the Body.

REMEMBER

THAT

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES

Are the medicines you require to purify the Blood, excite the torpid Liver to healthy action, and to enable you to pass safely through any hardships or exposure.

DR. HOOFLAND'S

PODOPHYLLIN,

OR

Substitute for Mercury Pills.

TWO PILLS A DOSE.

The most Powerful, Yet Innocent, Vegetable Cathartic known.

It is not necessary to take a handfull of these Pills to produce the desired effect; two of them act quickly and powerfully, cleansing the Liver, Stomach and Bowels of all impurities. The principle ingredient is Podophyllin, or the Alcoholic Extract of Mandrake, which is by many times more powerful, acting and searching than the Mandrake itself. Its peculiar action is upon the Liver, cleaning it speedily from all obstructions, with all the power of Mercury, yet free from the injurious results attached to the use of that mineral.

For all diseases in which the use of a cathartic is indicated, these pills will give entire satisfaction in every case. They NEVER FAIL.

In cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia and extreme costiveness, Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters or Tonic should be used in connection with the Pills. The tonic effect of the Bitters or Tonic builds up the system. The Bitters or Tonic purifies the Blood, strengthens the Nerves, regulates the Liver, and gives strength, energy and vigor.

Keep your Bowels active with the Pills, and tone up the system with Bitters or Tonic, and no disease can retain the hold, or even assail you.

Recollect that it is DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN Remedies that are so universally used and highly recommended; and do not allow the Druggist to induce you to take anything that he may say is just as good, because he makes a larger profit on it.

These Remedies will be sent by express to any locality, upon application to the PRINCIPAL OFFICE, at the GERMAN MEDICINE STORE, 631 Arch St., Philadelphia.

CHAS. M. EVANS, Proprietor.

A GREAT MEDICAL DISCOVERY!

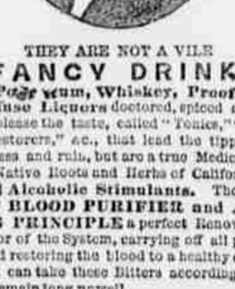

Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Hundreds of Thousands

Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal. Send for a circular.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK.

Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell.

$100 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

H. T. HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

in all their stages, at little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience, and no exposure. It causes a frequent desire, and gives strength to Urinate, thereby removing Obstructions, Preventing and Curing Strictures of the Uretha, Allaying Pain and Inflammation, so frequent in this class of diseases, and expelling all Poisonous matter.

Thousands who have been the victims of incompetent persons, and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they have been deceived, and that the "Poison" has, by the use of "powerful astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after Marriage.

Use HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU for all Affections and Diseases of the Urinary Organs, whether existing in Male or Female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing. PRICE ONE DOLLAR AND FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.
